Event Series

2014 –2015

Your pathway to skilled and ethical environmental practice

The Steps Program is the Environment Institute of Australia and New Zealand's (EIANZ) professional development program for early career environmental practitioners.

Aligned with the Institute's mission to lead excellence in environmental practice, the Steps Program plays an integral role in building the knowledge and skills of environmental professionals, providing a pathway to skilled and ethical practice and potential certification.

The Steps Program for 2014-15 offers a series of events aligned to the proficiencies set out in the EIANZ Proficiency Map for Environmental Practitioners.*

Events focus on practical environmental management skills as well as important enabling skills that support effective professional practice, communication and decision making.

Environmental Proficiencies

Environmental Ethics

Delivered by industry professionals, this event equips participants with practical strategies and tools for dealing with ethical challenges and issues you will likely face in your early environmental career.

Environmental Risk & Impact Assessment

This event provides practical knowledge and skills to undertake environmental risk and impact assessments including methods of assessing environmental impacts, evaluating alternatives and practical advice for early career environmental professionals.

Enabling Proficiencies

Professional Writing

This event builds skills in the delivery of effective, clear and concise written communication. It will cover preparing reports and papers, creating audience specific documents and improving your writing style and critical review techniques.

Communication & Consultation

Communication, public consultation and engagement skills are applied every day by environmental practitioners and yet remain a commonly underdeveloped skill area. Upon completion participants will be able to develop simple communication plans and understand how to select and apply commonly used consultation tools.
