The Steps Program Event Series

The Steps Program is the Environment Institute of Australia and New Zealand's (EIANZ) training program for early career practitioners.

Aligned with the Institute's mission to lead excellence in environmental practice, the Steps Program plays an integral role in building the knowledge and skills of environmental professionals, providing a pathway to skilled and ethical practice and potential certification.

Events have been designed by leading environmental practitioners and experienced training providers. Each event combines theoretical knowledge and real life case studies or presentations by industry professionals, providing practical skills which can be directly applied in the workplace.

Communication and Consultation

Communication, public consultation and engagement skills are applied every day by environmental practitioners, and yet remain a commonly underdeveloped skill area.

In this interactive course participants will:

- + Explore the theory and principles behind why public participation in decision making is important
- + Practice a range of simple engagement tools you can use with your community
- + Identify and analyse stakeholders
- + Write a consultation plan
- + Examine common tips and traps

About the training provider: Kerry Petty

With over 15 years experience delivering consultation and engagement in natural resource management and environmental protection, Kerry is a leading practitioner in supporting organisations to enable communities to have a say about their environment. Kerry is passionate about keeping environmental decision making simple, practical, ethical and accessible.
