

Environment Institute of Australia and New Zealand

Zoned Out: South Australia's Marine Parks Fifteen Years in the Making

Presentation by James Brook

When: Thursday 27th November 2014

Time: 5:30pm

Where: Kings Head Hotel
cnr King William and Sturt St, Adelaide

Members: $30

Non-members: $55

Students: $45

Cost includes a delicious three course dinner. Please see the next page to choose your main and desert option which must be ordered prior to the event via the email below.

Meal Order: Please send your choice of meal to:
abels@internode.on.net

RSVP: Tuesday 25th November via the 'Events' link:
www.eianz.org

Queries to Division President:

Grant Pinnington
abels@internode.on.net

Please join us and James Brook as he gives us a brief presentation within an enjoyable atmosphere of networking, socialising and industry professionals.

ABOUT James Brook

Whilst National Parks on land are almost universally accepted as being highly desirable, the establishment of Marine Parks in South Australia has proven to be a controversial and divisive issue.

James Brook, an Adelaide based marine biologist, will provide us with an overview of the processes undertaken to establish a representative system of marine parks in South Australia over the past 15 years and provide some insight into the politics surrounding the issue. James is an Adelaide based marine biologist who undertakes marine surveys and assessments for governments, universities, environmental consulting firms and industrial clients. He has had a long association with marine parks starting with his Master of Environmental Studies thesis on marine parks. He worked as a Project Officer in the early days of DEWNR's marine parks program, was a co-author of the ecological sections of impact assessments for the 19 new marine parks, and has had formal roles supporting the Conservation Council of South Australia. James has undertaken hundreds of dive surveys for DEWNR and the University of Tasmania to collect baseline data on the marine communities inhabiting marine parks across southern Australia.

M : 0417817 877

the King's Welcomes
EIANZ Christmas Dinner

Dinner Thursday 27th of November 2014

Shared Entrée

Parsley & lemon dip, toasted sour dough, crispy pancetta & basil croquettes, poached Spencer Gulf prawns, marinated fetta & chef's selection charcuterie.

Main (Choice)

{ } Chargrilled zucchini, leek, goat's cheese tart w/ tomato & basil salsa & baby spinach puree

{ } Pan fried Port Lincoln Kingfish, crushed potatoes prima vera, fresh herb salad & salsa verde

{ } 200g roasted Murraylands porterhouse, potato & leek galette, garlic asparagus, fried tomato & red wine glaze

Dessert (Choice)

{ } Petite fig & date Christmas Pudding, brandy anglaise, salted caramel, spiced strawberries

{ } Spiced Strawberries & Icecream

Please forward your choice of meal to abels@internode.on.net

With thanks

Grant Pinnington

President | South Australian Division EIANZ

Environment Institute of Australia and New Zealand (EIANZ)

abels@internode.on.net