FACILITATOR Dr Colin Hocking

Colin has 30 years of practical and evidence-based experience in investigating environmental issues and translating outcomes into change. He was project leader for the influential Government funded Guide Beside project, leading to professional development programs for sustainability educators and facilitators. He has evaluated a range of large-scale sustainability programs and been advisor to several others - including the National Skilling Educators for a Sustainable Australia (SESA) project. He is currently full-time Sustainability Education Officer at La Trobe University, working with academic staff to embed sustainability across disciplines. He is Chair of the Board of Tomorrow's Leaders for Sustainability, Vice-President (Education) of Australasian Campuses Toward Sustainability (ACTS) and recent Vice-President of the Victorian Association for Environmental Education.
