WELCOMING OUR NEW FELLOWS

The EIANZ Board is pleased to announce the appointment of six new Fellows. The status of Fellow is recognition of the leading role that a member has played in the environment profession. It is a well-deserved acknowledgement of their professional standing and commitment to ethical practice over an extended period. Congratulations to these worthy recipients!

SIMON LEVERTON

Simon is considered a doyen of the environment industry, having been a pioneer in early EMS work and environmental risk and compliance auditing.

He began life as a teacher before finding his calling and working as a Regulator within the EPA Victoria within the noise control and then licensing branches.

He broadened his skills by entering the water and waste-water industry, initially in Western Australia before moving back to the eastern states.

Simon then set his mind to consulting, working as a Senior Environment Scientist for over 25 years within such industries as: manufacturing, mining, agriculture, timber, construction, recycled water and State government.

His achievements in the industry were recognised when he received the 2011 Certified Environmental Practitioner of the Year award.

His involvement with EIANZ committee work stems back over 30 years. He is a well-deserving Fellow.

HAMISH MANZI

In a career spanning over 25 years, Hamish has held a diversity of senior Environmental and Sustainability roles and has consistently sought to elevate and promote the importance of environmental professionals as key participants and contributors in solving and resolving the trans-disciplinary challenges that society continues to face including the role that environmental management must play in supporting environmental protection.

The early influence of senior colleagues reinforced a focus on scientific principles, high professional standards, curiosity and lifelong learning as the foundations for his career and this has been at the centre of his service to the profession, at times in challenging professional situations.

Hamish maintains an active presence across Industry, is a member of State and National associations and has been an EIANZ member since 2005. Hamish has been a Mentor in the Young Professionals Mentoring Program and Policy Chair for the SEQ Divisional Committee from 2021 to 2023.

WELCOMING OUR NEW FELLOWS

MARTIN JUNIPER

Mr Martin Juniper is a distinguished and approachable professional recognised for his specialist expertise in environmental practice and regulation, especially in the planning stage of major projects. While his career began in the private sector, Martin's trajectory over the past decade has led to leadership positions within governmental domains.

His influence extends to his tireless volunteer work for the Victorian division of the EIANZ. Here, his extensive networks and ability to bring people together have contributed to influential conferences, events, and innovative mentorship programs. Notably, Martin's approachability and professional integrity have solidified his role as a leader in his field and garnered him respect within EIANZ.

ANDREW MORISON

Andrew Morison has worked in the environmental profession in NSW for over 35 years, primarily in the ecological consulting field, and has been a member of EIANZ for 14 years. He is active in the NSW Division, currently as President, and is committed to raising the profile of the Institute, while contributing to areas such as policy, increasing membership and events, and promoting ethical practice –all of which he is passionate about. He was co-founder and CEO of Australia's largest ecological consultancy for 17 years and has also held senior roles in government and business, including advising consultancies on strategy, operations and governance. As a prominent and highly and highly respected environmental professional in NSW, Andrew is now making a substantial contribution to the strength and success of the NSW Division, and is a worthy recipient of the award of Fellowship of EIANZ

OLIVIA WILLIAMSON

Olivia Williamson has demonstrated sustained leadership, technical knowledge and influence within the environmental profession in South East Queensland through her senior role in a leading private legal practice, her contribution to the EIANZ (SEQ Division) in a range of positions including Chair of Professional Development 2015-2022 and Vice President 2022 - present, and her contributions to industry and government through representation, advocacy and commitment to environmental best practice. She is a skilled and experienced legal advisor with a diverse client base including State and local governments, government owned corporations, community groups, first notions businesses and councils, private individuals and developers. Olivia is passionate about collaboration and ongoing professional development demonstrated by her dedication and active contributions within EIANZ.
