Justine works in AECOM's Cities Market Sector, which is dedicated to solving and reshaping complex challenges facing cities today. The opportunity for Sydney to build its global competitiveness and to redistribute jobs, social equity and amenity to the new western city is a once in a lifetime opportunity. Justine is inspired by this and the chance to partner with industry stakeholders and connect the dots with AECOM's specialist teams to help deliver the ambitious vision for Western Sydney.

Justine is a Registered Landscape Architect with a passion for collaboration, she has worked across major infrastructure and urban renewal projects for more than twenty years, with a significant proportion of these based in Western Sydney. In her role as Western Sydney Director Justine is responsible for ensuring that our teams bring the best people to AECOM's projects, regardless of geographical boundaries. She will also leverage our extensive knowledge through our applied research programs to share ideas on how to create the most sustainable opportunities to create a thriving new western city.

Soon Justine will be opening AECOM's new Parramatta office, which is expected to be operational in mid-August.
